To the Day of our Years
at Middlebury College
Back to a different Middlebury, it's still fun but it's more serious than ever before—there are more back than we thought—

The old Midd spirit is still much in evidence. Sam is doing a good job with the football team; dances at the gym go on, Black Panthers or not—

Rushing is over and everyone is happy; Interfraternity Ball was a good idea—are the Reserves going to be called or not? Oh-h-h it's getting cold!

Christmas vacation was more fun with exams behind us. A new semester and a new President—we are going to have to work hard—

I could get the Christmas spirit with greatest ease but mid-year examinations somehow get in the way. Oh, well, vacation isn't far away.
we see the Turmoil of a World around us and Prepare for Tomorrow

Dr. Paul Dwight Moody, President of Middlebury College from 1921 until 1942, resigned last year, after an unusually successful and notable term of office, to assume the duties of Associate Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in New York City.

During the twenty years that he was here at Middlebury, Dr. Moody devoted all of his time and energies to the welfare of the college, taking only two brief leaves in all that time. So much had he become a part of the college, that it is hard for us to believe that he has finally left Middlebury for good.

More students enrolled and more graduated during the administration of Dr. Moody than in the previous one hundred and twenty years of the college’s existence. Under his leadership the college grew in size, scope, and prestige, and facilities for providing for student training, health, and social life were greatly improved. Great increases in the total assets of the college, and the doubling of the endowment funds, testify to his efficiency and foresight.

But it is not for these tangible benefits which he brought that most of us will remember Dr. Moody. It is the memory of his smiling participation in football rallies, his genial presence at sports events, the informal teas at “prexy’s” house, and his friendly advice and counsel that will live with us for a long time to come.
Today we find many of those who shared our joys and sorrows through the first years at Middlebury no longer with us. It is only right that we remember, on this page, the men of the Class of 1944 who now are with the armed forces of the United States.

Dr. Samuel Stratton, Middlebury's new president, is well prepared to take office in these days of uncertainty and change. A graduate of Dartmouth, he received his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard, and has made a name for himself as an economist and, recently, as one of the chiefs of the priorities agency in Washington.
The Administration

Mr. Fritz

An extra large share of credit for the successful administration of Middlebury College goes to Jay J. Fritz, business manager for the last eighteen years. He has also been forester for the college since 1923, and at one time held the position of treasurer.

Mr. Hope

Robert D. Hope, the college’s genial treasurer, should be recommended for special honors. Four times a year he makes out the receipts for 788 students’ bills, and for eighteen years he has done this without losing his sense of humor.

Acting President Freeman

Acting President Stephen A. Freeman, Dean of the French School, took over the direction of Middlebury College for the first semester this year. During the trying days when students were trying to adjust themselves to a world at war, his cheerful attitude was reassuring.
For its fourth year, the Men's Assembly has functioned as the house of representatives of the undergraduate society.

Under the double guidance of Speaker Peter Nikitas, who left college, and Edward Peach, present Speaker, the assembly has continued its duties of chartering new organizations, setting up committees, and helping govern and control student activities.

Four representatives are chosen from each fraternity. One man must live in the house, three in dormitories. These act as proctors.

Harold Hollister's job is Secretary, this year, with Roy Kinsey, Sergeant-at-Arms.
and Student Union

This year Women's Assembly replaces Student Union as the legislative body of the women's campus. The object of the new constitution is to base student government on dormitory representation; there is usually one representative for every ten girls. The assembly holds informal meetings each month in Monroe Hall. Committees on charters, the point system, and finance have been chosen, as well as a war work committee which is raising enough money to support a refugee child under the Foster Parents' Plan.

"I second the motion..."
One of the traditions of which Middlebury College is most proud is that of the friendly spirit and cooperation which exists between its faculty and students. A great deal of the credit for this goes to the Student Life Committee, whose purpose is to provide for informal meetings where faculty and student representatives can discuss and settle everyday campus problems, and thereby come to understand each other better.

In general, college life is regulated by the Student Life Committee, the two student governments, and the administration.

Dean Ross, Dean Womack, Scott Eakeley, president of the Undergraduate Association, and Virginia Wynn, president of Women's Assembly make up this committee.
Regulation for Student Life

The governments set down the main regulatory policies concerning, as in the women's case, the proper attire for various occasions, the restriction of the number of nights out for freshmen and sophomores, and the time to be in at night. Only if student government regulation fails, do the Deans step in. The ruling of the administration is confined to such matters as limiting the number of absences from classes per semester and requiring daily chapel attendance. Once these general principles are laid down it is the business of the Student Life Committee to keep the program running smoothly and to settle any problems which may arise. To its consideration come such matters as advising on social questions, juggling the social calendar, approving student government constitutions, considering suggestions and criticisms from the student body, and putting its approval or disapproval on dances, entertainments and recreational events. We are all aware of these actions of the student governments and the administration, but how few of us are conscious of the existence of the Student Life Committee. Yet this small group goes about its work unapplauded, smoothing out some of the difficulties and problems that crowd college life, so that for each and every one of us college will represent days of happiness long to be enjoyed and remembered.

Sponsoring a play-day, faculty supper, and bonfire, the W. A. A. Council began a year crammed with activity.

With Isabel B. Grier, president; Doris A. Orth, vice-president; Georgia R. Childs, treasurer; Charlotte P. Hickcox, secretary; Dorothy E. Ayers, custodian; and Frances F. Head, manager of the cabin, the Council also includes heads of sports in season.

The making out of team sport programs, presentation of W. A. A. jackets, planning of a fall membership drive, and nomination of a new council and heads of sports are duties of the council.
The Athletic Council is composed of faculty members, sport captains, and managers.

The object of this council is to promote and regulate all general competitive athletic activities and interests of the college. Regular meetings of this council are held each month, the time and place being designated by the president.

The duties and powers of this council are to approve the elections of all undergraduate officials of every athletic team, decide all disputes which may arise, and to award the proper insignia of various sports to eligible students.
Both the Interfraternity and Pan-Hellenic Councils serve to insure maximum cooperation among fraternities, thereby eliminating any strife. Under the presidencies of William Engesser and Lois Groben, respectively, the interfraternal spirit has continued to be one of friendship and harmony.

The councils are composed of a junior and senior representative from each chapter. The function of these organizations is to govern rushing, establishing and enforcing the rules, and to raise the scholarship of the fraternities.

Election to class offices is the demonstration of the faith of the class in certain individuals. It means that they are respected and that they are conscientious, fair minded, and responsible. To know that the class members voted them representatives not only of their class at Middlebury but outside is an added honor to the officers. The recognition by the class of the admirable qualities in these members is not shallow. It entails responsibility and gives the officers ample opportunity to prove that their classmates were correct in their choices. In every action of the class as a whole the officers must make sure that the high standards of the college are maintained. They must guide opinions in the best direction they know, urging some plans or projects and advising against others. In these functions, class officers are most important, because they are the actual leaders of the group.

It is an honor to hold class offices at Middlebury, but the experience gained in the execution of these offices is of even more value than the distinction itself.

Above all other sounds on campus rises the plaintive cry:
I have a pre-A tomorrow . . . I have three papers due . . .
I have so much work to do . . .

A good picture always helps
Definition: The temporary or, occasionally, permanent absorbing of new material. Time: The night before a pre-announced examination. Place: The library, your own room or that of a friend. Position: Library—sitting in a chair with varying degrees of decorum; your own room—sitting with your feet on the desk, or lying in bed to encourage any tendencies toward falling asleep over the book; a friend’s room—lying in the middle of the floor. Equipment: Somebody else’s book, preferably one with the wrong words underlined; a second person’s notebook in handwriting which requires frequent deciphering; cigarettes, coke, gum, paper for doodling. Methods: Study hard for half an hour or so. For two hours discuss various topics with a friend. Hastily consider type of questions likely to appear on exam. Give up studying entirely. Results: Sometimes.

Recipe for living, à la Midd: Take the insistent jangle of an alarm clock, the chill of early morning, the echo of hurrying footsteps, and the sound of chapel bells. Mix to own taste with hard work. Vary with the momentary discouragement after a hard examination, with cold rain, or the sight of a girl’s shiny, wind-blown hair. Flavor with laughter, serve and enjoy.

Student Action
CAMPUS assignment: Student jobs. Results: Following facts excavated. Student raking leaves despairs of future when giddy frosh jumps in middle of leaf pile. Hepburn house duty girl's pet peeve is man who has girl on fifth floor. N.Y.A. workers say they study between jobs. Lim workers say number of books in libe is amazing. Ski trail worker says will ski in Carnival if back isn't strained. Bane of waitresses is woman who staggers in at 7:09 A.M. Boy doing janitor work helps Mrs. Craig by carrying blankets to supply closet on fourth floor Hepburn. Complains that girls screamed and slammed doors when they saw him. Worker in cage of reserve room at libe is tired of being told that he looks natural behind bars. Boy delivering campus bills and letters wishes he were greeted as warmly as regular mailman. Conclusion: Best way to pay expenses is to join the army.

To See what we shall See
Are you coming? It's about time! I don’t see why you always have to wait until after class to argue with the prof. If we don’t hurry, we’ll be late to chapel. Beautiful day, isn’t it? But then, I like any kind of Vermont weather, cloudy or clear. Spring days especially, when all the sunshine and dandelions come flooding down the hill.

The big things belong to each individual, but we all remember the little things. Know what I mean? Latecomers receiving hisses as they walk to their seats. Deciding whether to concentrate on the speaker or the opposite side of chapel. The gang of stags facing the steps as the girls walk out slowly or hastily, depending on whether they have a date or classes. Sunday chapel. Walking into the sunset glow reflected on the mountains.

CHAPEL

It’s a steep climb up the hill to chapel, but it’s worth it. Chapel’s the meeting place of the entire student body—plus all the dogs of the town of Middlebury.

Sometimes I get rather tired of putting one heavy foot in front of another, trudging up the hill from Monroe, especially in mud, ice, and snow. Remember that icy day when the fellows formed a life line and rescued a couple of girls stranded on an icy spot on the hill? The children from town, who were out sliding, thought the boys’ antics extremely funny, especially when some six-footer borrowed one of their little sleds and nearly wrapped himself around a tree.

"It seems to me that I have heard that song before."

CLASSES

I was going to cut class today and sleep, but I hate to miss anything, so I came after all. How many chapters behind are you in the reading for this course? I have three to do, and meant to get caught up last night, but I was too sleepy to study when I got back from play rehearsal. Those argyle socks look complicated. How do you manage to knit them without getting all tangled up? Give me math to do any day! Say, have you seen Ruthie since she cut her hair? The long bob must be out for the duration, even if the long sweater isn’t. Did you know . . . What? A quiz! But, prof, you didn’t tell us! Prof, mark me absent from this one. I can’t possibly take it. Yes, I’d rather take the make-up quiz next week, even if it will be harder. This reminds me of geology lab tests last year. I used to get such low scores trying to identify all those rocks and fossils that I’d have to take a make-up test every week. The only trouble was that I usually did worse on the second test than on the first. I never have any luck!

There’s a certain air about the chem building, if you know what I mean. And the people who have classes there are all too generous about bringing home samples of it. I know, I’ve lived with a chem major and we ran the gamut from perfume to rotten eggs and back again. It seems to me there ought to be better ways of spending an afternoon than spilling acids and trying to blow up the building.

The lectures aren’t particularly unusual, I’ve been told, but the labs seem to be different. I’m not quite sure how it’s done, but a lot of the gossip from the women’s campus seems to get to the men’s, and vice versa, by way of those labs. You can get an opinion on almost anything or anybody, too, “while I’m waiting for that reaction to take place.” Any chem major, incidentally, will rave on for hours about his golden future in industry, but I bet he just likes to mix things to see what will happen.

Warner Science has a sort of lingering odor about it, too, but having taken freshman “bug” I’m used to that. Remember those beautiful frogs, and all we were supposed to find in them but didn't? As for movies and slides, I never did decipher those notes we took in the dark, since half of them were written on the same line and on the other half my pen ran out of ink. Joe took physics downstairs the same year, but all he ever did, as far as I could see, was look at complicated instruments and boil water and then write long pages of reports about it. But when you can find everything from rocks and maps to Beethoven's symphonies in the same building, it's quite a place. And remember when the aviation cadets first moved in last fall? Code class making a big racket in one room, a professor in uniform, and the building all lighted up for classes in the evening? And now, motor mechanics class in the basement. Maybe it didn't look very friendly at quarter of eight some dark morning last winter, but it's a rather nice place after all.

Now what is it I was supposed to get downtown? It couldn't be cigarettes. My roommate just bought a carton. Hiyah Johnny! Wonder if it was something from the Grey Shop or Farrell's? Honestly, that couple on the bridge is going right over some day, I hope. Oh, well, let's stop in Swanson's while I think about it. Double coke, please.
On Sunday nights... among all the service announcements on the bulletin board. Do you need a directory, too? It's a pleasure to stop in the registrar's office without having to scrawl out a new worse-than-ever schedule on countless little cards for registration. I can even walk erect past the treasurer's office. There's no long-overdue check, that's obviously gone by way of Alaska, to feel guilty about. Let's see now, cuts. Why, are you sure? My alarm just couldn't have failed me that many times!

On the way out, let's stop to read the notices posted by the door downstairs. I heard the end of a chapel announcement this morning. It was something about a meeting somewhere tonight and I thought perhaps I should find out what it was all about, in case I wanted to go. I don't see anything like that, do you? Hmm, marks close next week. No wonder I have four exams this week, three of them on the same day. Well, time's a-wasting. Let's go.

What are you looking for, a book to study for a quiz? You'll be lucky if you can find it. All the books I ever need for courses are on reserve, and that dash for the reserve room at seven every night is just about too much for me. Any good art

LIBRARY

Look, before we go anywhere else, let me leave this book at the libe.

Did you ever notice all the things that go on here? Take the browsing room for instance—the drowsing room, as my room-mate calls it. Looking at the latest New Yorker jokes typifies my work there. The stacks are . . . . well, educational. Those squeaky stairs disturb study in the reserve book room. If you need absolute quiet, like a morgue, try the Abernethy room. A single sneeze and everyone is out of his seat. For the best studying and entertainment let me sit in the main reading room with my back to the door.

exhibits or anything this week? The librarians certainly find some interesting books to put out on that table that they save for displays. Did you see the books on photography that were there a while ago? Let's have a look at the new book shelf. I wish I had time to read a couple of those murder mysteries and best sellers. I don't see why they have to charge two cents a day for the new books. I suppose it's because of their high rate of demand (my ec. coming out). Ready to go yet?

You can stop whispering now. We're outside.

FRENCH

The Chât looks as though it were miles away, especially when it's winter and you're late for class. In the spring everybody gets bogged down trying to cross the field when the ground is still muddy. Jack says he always feels like one of Prof. Schmidt's mastadons, stuck in a prehistoric asphalt pit. Oh, well, anything for the sake of a short cut.

There's Jane over there, dashing for the music studio. She still has three more symphonies to listen to before the exam. tomorrow and she only has an hour to do it in. Of course by this time the entire class is trying to listen to the same records at once and all the earphones are in use. I know what it's like. I took that music survey course last year.

The music studio is a noisy place. It seems to me that there's always somebody playing the violin in one room, while a soprano practices scales in another, and several other students toot French horns or bang out Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Major on the piano. The whole effect is anything but harmonious, but I suppose that if you're one of the people doing the singing or playing, you don't notice all the other noises.

You can just see the Playhouse from the road to the Châte. That reminds me, I promised I'd help with scenery construction and painting for the next play. I did a little on the last production and it was fun, though I nearly broke my neck going down the back path after dark, the field is so bumpy and full of ditches. And that brings us back to French. What I mean is, the shortcut to the Playhouse is as bad as the one to the Châte.
Classes in the Chât are fun, though. If you haven't done your lesson you can always study French architecture by looking at the posters on the wall. Know the one of the village street? I like to imagine I'm walking down that street, but somehow, every time I'm just turning the corner, I have to recite.

Last year I had a class in the Chât right before lunch, and it was sheer torture. There we were, starving, while the smell of fresh rolls drifted up from the kitchen. Speaking of food, I wonder if the girls ever know what they're eating at the Chât. With my French I couldn't even ask for the salt. Alice says she only had trouble once, though. That was when the waitress asked her—en français, of course—if she'd like “heavenly hash” for dessert. It turned out to be Fruit Delight.

I like the idea of having to speak French at the Chât, because you have to learn to think it too, and when you've done that, half the battle with the language is won.

Did you ever notice the Chât at night? It blooms up out of the darkness, and the light from the windows falls in long streaks across the field. Toward the west the airplane beacon winks regularly. My roommate thought it was northern lights for a long time.

Even if we argued forever, we wouldn't decide which dorm ranks as the best on campus. Forest is new and well equipped, and the rec room certainly is a general college meeting place. Remember the coke machine that always seemed to be empty? I guess Mrs. Smith and the maids are glad it's gone. Think of all the bottles they had to collect! The nice feature about Forest is that you can "live alone and like it" or share a spacious apartment with your roommate.

If you insist on arguing, what does Forest have that Gifford doesn't have? Aside from pretty girls in it, of course. There's a good rec room, plus the added attractions of the smoke shop and the big suites on fifth floor. I don't think I'll ever forget that freshman who used to practice on his drums with the "Vic" blaring away, and speaking of "Vics," it's a good thing that the Gifford lounge, at least, is soundproof, because there certainly isn't any shortage of them in the dorm. Did you hear that Mrs. Craig conducted groups of girls through Gifford during Carnival?
Betty claims it was one of the highlights of the week-end.

Any girl from Battell will tell you that the food there (midnight snacks especially) is the best on campus. No one seems to mind the small rooms or thin walls. And what if the closets in Pearsons' are inadequate? That doesn't affect the whole dorm, does it? Meg says there's always a debate whether to go Greenwich Village on the fourth floor or to have a room with a view on third.

I suppose Hillside is rather isolated, but the mail truck gets there sooner than elsewhere. Hillside's been invaded by freshmen this year, and from all reports they get plenty of cross-country practice making that 7:10 breakfast deadline at Batt. Hillcrest is homely but homey. It's rumored that the girls there get plenty of thrills braving the fire escapes during surprise drills.

Remember the unhappy expressions on the men's faces when Hepburn went over to the women? Now that the women have taken possession, just try to get Hepburn back! I wonder who it was that shaved the beard off that moose in the living room. Wouldn't you think that some enterprising girl would put red nail polish on the claws of that huge bear on the stairs? I suppose he's frightening enough already. As for something really frightening, you should have seen the fellows climbing around on the roof of Hepburn!

Then there's Painter, home of the campus' musicians. I've never heard so many different tootings and thumpings come out of the same building. Painter strikes a happy medium between the style of Gifford and the hominess of Starr. And speaking of Starr, there's one place where the saying, "If you do it home, do it here" doesn't apply. No mother would appreciate those cigarette butts littering her floor, but maybe with the arrival of the C.P.T. and army discipline things have changed.

Why argue? All the dorms on campus are good.

Publications Vie for Student Interest

Bottles of ink and reams of paper are consumed yearly as Middlebury editors and would-be-editors frantically rush to meet inescapable deadlines. Fruits of their journalistic labors are the following publications.

KALEIDOSCOPE

HANDBOOK

The Middlebury Handbook issued to incoming freshmen is of value to them in two ways. Section one, published before the college year, familiarizes them with rules and customs. Section two contains pictures of the freshman class and is distributed later in the fall. Editor of the 1942-1943 edition is William G. Allen.

DIRECTIONS

DIRECTIONS, the college literary magazine, is sponsored by the English and American literature departments and provides an outlet for campus poets, fiction writers, and essayists. Published three times yearly, the slim volume has proved itself well worth the time and money required to print it during the three years of its existence.

well, business manager, and Carolyn Ohlander, advertising manager.

Promotion on the CAMPUS staff occurs once a year, three years of work being necessary before one of the board positions can be achieved.

The effects of the war on CAMPUS production first became evident when it was necessary in February to move members of the staff to Burlington to set up the issues, and to have the paper sent from there to St. Albans to be printed. The position of editor-in-chief has changed hands four times in a year’s space because of men leaving for the service.

CAMPUS

The Middlebury CAMPUS, undergraduate weekly, keeps students posted on college events and gives its staff members an opportunity to gain valuable newspaper experience in writing, editing, and proof reading.

MORTAR BOARD

Women hold their own on the Middlebury campus with the national honorary society of Mortar Board. The qualifications for this society are service, scholarship, and leadership, and outstanding examples of these qualities are its officers: Margaret Dounce, president; Leonore Wolff, vice-president; Carolyn Ohlander, secretary; Dorothy Forsythe, treasurer; and Nancy Cowgill, "Quarterly" editor. The members are tapped their junior year, and can from that day be recognized by their pins, small replicas of the traditional mortarboard.

Mortar Board is not a group content to rest on its laurels. The members give a picnic for freshman women and the Senior Picnic. Each spring it awards a cup to the sophomore woman most outstanding in service, scholarship, and leadership.

"M" CLUB

Athletics hold a major part in the lives of Middlebury students, and the men can thank the "M" Club for helping to keep sports in top place. Membership is limited to undergraduates and alumni who have earned a letter in a major sport, and to managers of varsity teams, the freshman football manager, and the intramural manager. The club was organized in 1926, and is now an honorary society. The members display their "M" sweaters on various occasions to encourage freshmen to acquire this symbol of athletic prowess.

BLUE KEY

A society of prominence and responsibility, Blue Key was formed in 1930. The sale of freshman rules and caps, the purchase of awards for championship teams, the conduct of athletic rallies, and the well-known governing of frosh men, all fall under the society's jurisdiction. Membership is limited to twenty-five men from the three upper classes, and those chosen are tapped during daily chapel sometime in the spring. A blue metal key is their traditional symbol. The organization grew out of a merger of the Delta Taus, a sophomore society, and the Sages, for junior men, and it has progressed from an honorary organization to a group taking an active part in campus affairs.

WAUBANAKEE

The requirements for Waubanakee, an honorary society for junior men only, are high. They are based on scholarship, character, personality, and participation in extra-curricular activities. The tomahawk, symbol of progress, is the society's emblem. Traditionally membership is limited to nine men, but this quota has not been filled since 1918. Last spring, Lew Haines, Scott Eakeley, Dick Morehouse, Freddie Lapham, and Ted Peach were tapped for membership in the present year.

DRAMA

Middlebury students show their interest in art in many ways. The more talented ones find that the environs of the college offer an endless variety of scenes to paint, though too often the desire to spend an afternoon sketching is overshadowed by the necessity of studying. The library stimulates general interest in art by arranging small exhibits in the main reading room; more extensive collections of drawings and paintings, many of them by artists from the town of Middlebury, are placed in the browsing room. Most of the artistically inclined students find an outlet for their talents at the Playhouse.

With the incorporation of the drama department into the English department at the beginning of the fall semester, the Playhouse stood for a time in danger of its very existence. It remained for Mr. Eric T. Volkert, speech and drama professor, to take over and organize a dramatics club to carry on the work previously undertaken by the department. Thus under Mr. Volkert's leadership the Middlebury College Players came into existence, were granted a charter, and set about the business of giving plays on their own initiative.

The first play of the season, Karel Capek's R.U.R., proved to be an interesting experiment not only in a more serious type of drama, but also in scenery and lighting effects. It was presented on November 9 and 10 and played to a full house both nights.

After an intensive three week rehearsal, Out of the Frying Pan, a farce-comedy by Francis Swann, was presented with great success on February 19. The audience spent a hilarious evening roaring at the antics of the six young people in the play. This comedy counted as the second major production of the year.

In accordance with Mr. Volkert's plan for student participation, two programs of student-directed one act plays were presented during the 1912-13 season, one in December and one in March. The plays provided opportunity for all who wished to... paint, build scenery, act as stage hands or just putter around backstage.

A large part of the students who take part in playhouse activities are not majoring in drama. For them the variety of work offered by stagecraft provides recreation and a change of atmosphere. After hours of study it is relaxing to turn from mental to manual work. The annoyance or discouragement after an examination lessens with each pound of the hammer or slap of the paintbrush, and it is just as much of a satisfaction to be able to do a good job of carpentry or painting as it is to write a paper or solve a mathematical problem.

This year has seen a minor revolution in dramatic activities on the campus, a revolution which has resulted in even greater student participation than in former years. It has proven once and for all that student interest in dramatics is not only high, but unflagging.
WOMAN'S FORUM

Originally Women's Forum was a group organized to discuss political and social problems. Now Forum, headed by Elizabeth von Thurn, carries on an extensive program of social service work. This includes Red Cross knitting and sewing groups, and the management of the Thrift Shop, which sells donated clothing at low prices to needy townspeople. Forum members give dancing lessons to Middlebury youngsters, and each year brighten the Ripton children's Christmas with a party and presents.

Forum panel discussions are held bi-monthly with Professor Robert W. Rafuse as faculty advisor. The discussions, open to all members, are held on current world problems. Occasionally a faculty member leads the group.

Debating has always been of interest to alert Middlebury students. Coached by Professor Perley C. Perkins, it helps the participants to think logically and to speak fluently and forcefully. Topics of immediate interest and importance to the social, political, and economical fields, especially in regard to the war and post-war planning, make it a valuable extracurricular activity.

This year, in spite of transportation difficulty, the debating teams carried on. The men's team had debates with Dartmouth, Harvard, Columbia, McGill and other universities. The women's team went to Keene, Boston University and Radcliffe. Highlight of the '42-'43 season was the debate held here February 24 with the University of Vermont. Middlebury not only won the decision, but captured two of the three prizes offered annually by the Edwin Winship Lawrence Fund. John E. Unterecker and Charles J. Parker won first and second prizes respectively.
Music Soothes the Activity Minded

ORCHESTRA

The college orchestra, directed by Mr. Richard Warbasse, who has taken over in the absence of Mr. Alan Carter, engages in the study of various classical works. Because of the restricted war-time program it is now an organization primarily for the pleasure of its members, and will resume its former status with the advent of better conditions. Next year the orchestra hopes to present at different intervals programs of varied musical content to the student body and faculty.

CHOIR

Middlebury's choir has always been an organization to be proud of, and its spring tours have been long remembered by the participants. Although present-day conditions have cancelled spring tours for the duration, the choir, under director H. Ward Bedford, is continuing its fine work on the home front. Its fifty members, among whom are several freshman men filling places created by the loss of men to the service, sing regularly in Sunday chapel and present special programs at Christmas and Easter. Especially to be remembered by every one of us this year was the Christmas program given by the choir, with its glowing, candle-lit procession and its sensitive performance of the lovely Polish, Flemish, and English carols.

When the will to give is sincere...
Middlebury’s band, led by Lew Haines, did a splendid job this year and contributed a great deal to “the old Midd spirit.” For the first time, women were included in the group, whose bright blue and white uniforms, peppy music and precise formations called forth great student enthusiasm. Even on the coldest of football afternoons the band was out there on the field, marching and playing, albeit with stiff fingers and chilly knees. The band’s thirty members, in addition to playing at games, played on various occasions for draftees who were leaving Middlebury. Much credit goes to the band members, to Lew, and to Mr. Warbasse, the faculty leader, for all their work to give Middlebury a truly fine band. Perhaps the game we most remember in respect to fine band performance was the Vermont-Middlebury game, when the mercury dropped abruptly, leaving everyone shivering in the biting wind. In spite of such adverse conditions, the band persevered, and only the person who has tried to blow a trumpet or move horn stops in cold weather can appreciate the band’s efforts on that occasion.

Tone, Middlebury’s organization for music lovers, is headed by Warren Hassmer, president; Lois Hanchett, secretary-treasurer; and Milon Cluff, program director. Little-known works were introduced to Tone, and members planned active participation in ensemble work, operatic study, and original composition. This year, Tone’s second, was even more successful than last year. The works of lesser-known contemporary composers were studied with great enjoyment by the members.

For the love of music...
That Middlebury's conference, held January 16 and 17 on "The Cultural Implications of the War," was a success, was testified to by enthusiastic student and faculty response. Moreover, the ideas expressed there have not yet ceased to be the source of lively campus discussion.

The first of four conference sessions was headed by Robert Rafuse. Taking part in considering "The Political and Economic Foundations of our Civilization" were Harold Bruce of Dartmouth, Robert Carey of Columbia, Alvin Hansen and John Dunlop of Harvard, Mordecai Ezekiel, vice-chairman of the War Production Board, and Pierre de Lanux of Middlebury.

In the afternoon "The Literary and Artistic Implications of the War" were discussed. Virgil Aldrich of Columbia, Sidney Cox of Dartmouth, our own Professor Freeman, Rockwell Kent, Pierre de Lanux, Ludmilla Pitoeff, Pedro Salinas, Russell Stafford and Virgil Thomson were participants in the panel.

On Sunday two more topics were presented, "The Political and Economic Outlook of our Civilization" and "The Literary and Philosophical Implications of the War."

The conference committee consisted of Charles Kaiser, chairman; Kurt Petshek, secretary; and Paul Davis, student secretary.

Because the Middlebury students and faculty did not want to wait until next year's proposed conference before continuing their discussions, it was decided to consists of twelve members chosen from each of the three upper classes and includes an equal number of men and women. Aspiring freshmen try out in the fall for a position on temporary Skyline from which the governing board elects the new members for the following year.
The planning of the fun carry on along the lines of the January sessions within the college itself. Twice a month, the ideas closest to the undergraduates and their own able professors are given expression at meetings in Monroe. This plan, the most direct and valuable result of the panels, was formulated in the humanities discussions.

On returning to college in the fall, one of the first things which welcomes us back is the chapel announcement of the weekly hike scheduled for one of the Green Mountains, for a hike is guaranteed as a quick and easy method of forming new friendships and an effective means of getting acquainted with the freshmen and making them feel more at home in their new surroundings.

The fall hikes to the mountains number about eight (varying with weather conditions), starting with an easy hike up Snake Mountain and graduating, toward the end of the season, to Mt. Mansfield and Mt. Killington, the two highest peaks in Vermont. When snow appears, the mountain club trucks turn toward Breadloaf, a favorite rendezvous of all skiers, good, bad or indifferent. The Vermont countryside offers many surprises in the form of steep mountain trails, excellent ski slopes, and gorgeous views. Although the trips have been curtailed this year, the war has had no dampening effect upon those which

MOUNTAIN CLUB

The Mountain Club, founded in 1931, continues to be a major feature among Middlebury's activities. Since its inauguration here, this club has grown to be one of the largest and most efficiently run organizations of its kind in the country. The governing board, headed by Elliot Baines, and the junior body, Skyline, have done much to uphold its reputation. Skyline were carried out in spite of the transportation problems.

The most important function of the Mountain Club has always been to sponsor the annual winter carnival. The program of activities usually follows a certain traditional scheme. Carnival opens with the coronation of the king and queen, elected by popular vote. Ordinarily this ceremony is followed by the carnival ball, although last year open-house fraternity dances had to be substituted. The following day begins the ski events, which include slalom and downhill racing and a jumping contest. Next comes a play, and finally the informal Klondike Rush ends carnival. Irene Ruthenburg and Robert Darrow were this year's carnival co-chairmen.

King Richard Morehouse and Queen Elizabeth von Thurn reigned over a carnival which should rate high in the history of the college. Our prayers were answered with splendid snow conditions for most of the skiing. Although Middlebury was fourth in the meet, several individual Midd skiers were outstanding, especially in the downhill and the jumping. The carnival play, Out of the Frying Pan, was proclaimed a howling success, judging from the sounds that issued from the gym. The fraternities and sororities turned out a number of very clever snow sculptures. Klondike Rush ended the holidays with its usual exciting informality.

DEPARTMENTALS

For those students who wish to gain a more intimate knowledge of a foreign country or to study a language in more detail than is allowed by the limited class time, the various language clubs of Middlebury have been organized. The wide variety of activities offered by these clubs makes them popular with the students, who show their interest not only by participating actively, but also by contributing many new ideas to the programs.

Under the direction of Denise Aubuchon, president, Le Cercle Français gathers on the first Tuesday of each month to listen to lectures, sing, and present plays. In previous years, refreshments were served at each meeting, but this year the members voted to donate the money to the war effort. The French Club sponsors two of the most popular events of the college year. In the fall, students go to Chipman Hill for the Bacon Bat to indulge in frankfurters, ice cream and lusty renditions of Le Petit Navire. The French Club formal is held in February in the grand salon of the Château. Harriet Bartels is club vice-president, Rosamund Burleigh, treasurer. This year Jean Ledden was the chairman of the formal.

The French Club

The German Club
Students who wish to increase their proficiency in speaking German meet each month at Professor Neuse's home. At one meeting this year Professor Neuse showed colored moving pictures of folk dances presented by the German Summer School at Bristol. The club, under Peter Hoff, president, and Elinor Metzger, vice-president, sang Christmas carols outside Professors Neuse and Skillings' homes for the December meeting. Membership in the German Club is limited to advanced students of the language. This helps keep the organization small and allows for much greater individual participation at the meetings.

The Literary Club believes that attention should be given to our own culture, and was organized to stimulate interest in contemporary literature, as well as to provide an opportunity for discussion of creative work. At meetings, students are provided with mimeographed copies of poems by a modern writer, and the discussion is carried on using these selections as a basis. An annual picnic is usually held in conjunction with Tone. George Sullivan is club president, John Kalajian, vice-president, and Dorothy Laux, secretary-treasurer. Sometimes the regular program of the meeting is varied to permit guest speakers. Students also bring in their own work to be read and discussed.

John Kalajian, president, Helen Haldt, vice-president, and Lenore Jenkins, secretary-treasurer, officiate at meetings of the Spanish Club. The main social event of the year is a Spanish supper. An innocent bystander hearing such terms as chorizos, garbanzos or aceitunas aliñados, might wonder whether he had been transported to Mexico in his sleep until a quick glance assured him that the Spanish Club was preparing sausages, chickpeas and stuffed olives in Recitation Hall. However, the Spanish Club does not concentrate on only the gastronomic aspect of Spanish culture. The entertainment program includes moving pictures, lectures by faculty members, and humorous skits presented by students. In addition, the club gives an annual bridge party. Of course all conversation is carried on in Spanish, and sometimes bidding brings strange results, since nobody is quite sure what his partner is talking about.

This year the Alpha Sigs find themselves leading the way in various phases of college life. Since its founding at Middlebury in 1925 Alpha Sigma Phi has, through local achievements, proved an important addition and asset to Alpha Chapter, which was founded at Yale in 1845. The ASP’s have no national philanthropic works, but with other houses on campus they have contributed actively and wholeheartedly to all local drives. The war may have drained the house of many of its members, but through individual initiative and group cooperation the ASP’s intend to maintain their high standards in extra-curricular projects.
Alpha Xi Delta

The sorority of Alpha Xi Delta, member of the National Pan-Hellenic Council, was organized and established at Lombard College, Galesburg, Illinois, on April 17, 1893. Middlebury's chapter, Alpha Pi, was established in 1925, and since that time has contributed a great deal to the campus life and experiences of its members. Ruth deLong has been its president in the 1942-43 college year.

One hundred college and alumnae chapters of Alpha Xi Delta recently participated in the Founders' Day collections which resulted in the gift of a blood donor ambulance, presented to the national chairman of the American Red Cross.

Founded at Middlebury in 1843, Alpha Mu of Chi Psi is celebrating its centennial this year. For a century the chapter has engaged in all campus activities, and can claim two Middlebury College presidents, Brainerd and Thomas.

The national organization of the fraternity plays its role in learning. With an educational endowment, it supplements the work of the college in character development and interest in education. Another intellectual stimulus is the Phi Beta Kappa honor society, to which ten percent of the Chi Psis belong.

The Abernethy wing, Warner Science Hall, and the Chapman property were given to Middlebury by Chi Psis.
Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University in 1808 and there are at present eighty-six chapters in the United States and Canada. The Middlebury chapter, Alpha Iota, was formed in 1917.

In the past, the Middlebury members have had small parties, alone and with other sororities, an annual outing at Lake Dunmore, and various dances, formal and informal. The Tri-Delts have cooperated with various community service projects and have placed special emphasis on such things since the outbreak of the war. Twice a week they work on surgical dressings for the Red Cross and assist with civil defense canvasses.
Delta Kappa Epsilon

Delta Kappa Epsilon, founded at Middlebury in 1854, is one of the leading contributors to campus activities and puts special emphasis on athletics by having as members five major sports captains, and managers in both major and intramural sports. Honors have come to the DKE's in the presidential offices of Waubanakee and Blue Key. However, successful intramural participation doesn't interfere with active membership in musical, literary, and scientific organizations. Not limiting their contributions to campus activities alone, they give freely to several charitable organizations and support needy causes.
Delta Upsilon

Winners of the coveted trophy of trophies in intramural sports for the year 1942-43 are the Delta Upsilon. They are well represented in the various high honor societies on campus, in athletics, and in other extra-curricular activities. The Middlebury chapter of Delta Upsilon was founded in 1865, twenty-two years after the first chapter was established at Williams. During the early years of its existence the fraternity had meeting rooms in the town of Middlebury; after that it occupied what is now the infirmary. Later, when Hepburn was opened, meetings were held on the first floor. The present chapter house was built in 1923.
Kappa Delta

Kappa Delta was founded at Virginia State Normal in 1897 and established at Middlebury in 1910. Nationally KD supports a home for the crippled and carries on activities, such as the sale of special sorority Christmas seals, to raise money for this hospital fund. It also supports a student loan and an endowment fund. Once a month Middlebury members aid the war effort by preparing surgical dressings.

The KD’s, with Dorothy Hood as president, participate in all college activities such as W.A.A. sports, CAMPUS work, dramatics, orchestra, and carnival committees. Several members are in choir and four are in Skyline.
Democracy is the keynote at the Kappa Delta Rho house, where a group with some of the most varied interests on campus is found. Starting here at Middlebury as the Commons Club, the fraternity founded its Alpha Chapter in 1905 and became the fourth organization of its kind at the college. With membership now expanded to include eighteen chapters, the KDR's, both nationally and locally, are contributing in a large measure to the war effort. At Middlebury they first donated all trophies to the scrap drive, and a short time later organized and carried out the war stamp sales campaign.
There is no typical Kappa, for the members of Kappa Kappa Gamma are interested in all campus activities. Founded in 1870 and established here in 1923, the sorority has tried to promote the ideals of friendship, cooperation, and high scholarship. "Key" Kappas on campus personify these qualities, and at mid-years the sorority won the Pan-Hellenic scholarship cup. Realizing that superficial ideas about sororities must go, Kappas, nationally and locally, are contributing to the support of the Nora Waln Fund for refugee children and recently established a canteen in New York for WAVES and WAACs.
Phi Mu

The fraternity of Phi Mu was founded at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia, in March, 1852. It is the second oldest secret organization for women in existence. Sixty-four chapters play prominent parts on college campuses throughout the United States. Phi Mu figures actively in war work, maintains several scholarship funds, and manages two travelling clinics, called Healthmobiles, which bring medical aid to thousands who could not afford it otherwise. Middlebury’s own chapter, Beta Lambda, came here in 1925, and today occupies a large, comfortable suite of rooms downtown. One of the chapter’s most valued possessions is a district award for scholarship.

Versatility marks the Pi Phis, who take their places in college activities as members of the debating team, Skyline, CAMPUS, KALEIDOSCOPE, and Mortar Board. After winning the Pan-Hellenic scholarship cup for three consecutive semesters, Pi Phi received the award permanently.

In 1912 a settlement school was established in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, by this international fraternity. While all the chapters of Pi Beta Phi have united in buying $120,000 of war bonds, Vermont Alpha has also been active in war work on campus.

Pi Beta Phi was founded in 1867. The Middlebury chapter, established in 1893, was the first national women’s fraternity at the college.
Sigma Alpha

We all have ideas, but few are as fortunate as Bill Ferguson to have them amount to something. Bill's was to found a fraternity here in Middlebury. In four years that fraternity has developed an active membership and now contributes widely to the general campus program. Dramatics and music especially have found the Sigma Alpha's versatile and hard-working. The scholarship record of the fraternity is excellent, and the brothers are well represented in athletics, too. Thus the youthful Sigma Alpha has entered into the life of Midd along with the older fraternities, and has made its presence felt.
On imaginary shelves for awards and prizes, Sigma Kappa members place their achievements. Since their sorority's founding in 1911, their campus activities have been varied, this year's shelf being filled with the Optima award, the Bible prize, and Student Union, W.A.A., and Mountain Club positions. Annual contributions of gifts to the Maine Sea Coast Mission, supplemented by the contribution of magazine subscriptions to the soldiers, represent the philanthropic side of the shelf nationally. Locally the Sigma Kappas as a group are making baby blankets, as well as contributing individually by aiding the Red Cross surgical dressing group.
Sigma Phi Epsilon

Vermont Beta of Sigma Phi Epsilon has felt the blows of the present conflict more than any other fraternity at Middlebury, having lost over half its members to the armed forces during the current year. Despite this, the chapter has maintained its high standard of extra-curricular activities, faring particularly well in intramural sports besides possessing three individual and one team championship. Outstanding member this year was William Engesser, who was president of his class as well as of the Interfraternity Council, captain of the golf team, manager of the college bookstore, and who received recognition in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Founded at Norwich University in 1856, Theta Chi came to this campus on May 9, 1942, as a result of a national merger with Beta Kappa. The latter fraternity had been a part of Middlebury student life since 1925. Under the guidance of James Clark, president, the fraternity has made a name for itself as Theta Chi, as well as carrying on the spirit and reputation it had established as Beta Kappa. Once again this group has taken the college scholastic cup, which it has held fourteen out of the past seventeen semesters. It has also put $2,075 into war bonds.
Gold Cane

Gold Cane, founded in 1940, provides an opportunity for non-sorority women to consolidate their interests into worthwhile activities. This organization has held an increasingly important position since its establishment. Besides the social meetings, held every other week, its activities include trips to the W.A.A. cabin, snow sculpturing, parties, scholastic help for the members, and war activities, such as rolling bandages and entertaining service men. Any non-sorority woman is eligible and membership costs only ten cents a semester. Led by Alice Ruth Symonds during the first semester and Audrey Nunnemacher the second, Gold Cane has merited the support it has received.
COACHES

Coach Arthur M. Brown has been at Middlebury for twenty-five years, during which time he has coached about every sport, and now is head of the athletic department, and professor of physical education. Not only that, he is also head coach of track, basketball, cross-country, and relay.

Coach Sam Guarnaccia took over the reins of the football team this year, replacing ex-Coach Beck. He is also professor of Spanish and Italian. In 1940 he guided the frosh football team to an undefeated season.

Coach Phinney, one of Middlebury's all-time hockey greats, is back this year as coach of the hockey team, replacing George Akerstrom, who has joined the armed forces.

Red Kelly is not only head coach of baseball, but also physical education instructor and guiding light behind the college's complex intramural system.

Dick Field, new football line coach, worked under Sam Guarnaccia at Cheshire Academy, and also played with Columbia and the Danbury Trojans.
FOOTBALL

Although Middlebury's football season was unsuccessful in the matter of victories and defeats, it was successful in the light of the greater spirit and drive that the team showed in its first season under its new head coach, Sam Guarnaccia. Co-Captain Bob Adsit was lost to the team for the greater part of the season through injury, as were other men for shorter periods, while Walt Swift and Dave Johnson were taken by the draft early in the season.

Middlebury, badly outclassed and gaining only five yards from scrimmage in the first half, lost to Williams at Williams-town, 41 to 0, in the first game. It wasn't until the fourth period that Midd started moving, four first downs moving the ball down to the Williams fifteen yard line before the attack stalled. Sheehan's running and Cooke's passing were instrumental during this advance while Charley Puksta and Holly Hollister were outstanding on the defense, along with Bob Reuman, Skip Harris, Dan Colyer, Tom Cruess, and freshman Dave Thompson.

The next Saturday in Medford, the Panthers lost to a Tufts team superior in the air both offensively and defensively, three times intercepting passes within their own fifteen yard line, and scoring on a forty-seven yard interception in the second period. Midd held for downs on the one yard line in the third period, but Tufts scored again on a thirty-three yard dash in the fourth to win 12-0.

ATHLETICS

gave Union a thrilling 14 to 13 win at Middlebury after the Blue had come from behind in the fourth quarter on touchdown runs of twenty-three and seventy-three yards by Tom Rooney, both set up by interceptions by Dick Buonerba. The Guar-naccia men threatened in the third period when Bobo Sheehan ran forty yards to the nineteen yard stripe. Johnny Urban in four plays carried the ball to a first down on the eight, but then the Garnet line stiffened and held Midd for downs on the one yard line. Both Union scores came on passes from Rustice to Siegal.

Colby beat an ineffective Panther outfit that could move only through the air, 26 to 6, at Waterville, Maine, the next weekend. The Midd touchdown came on a seventy-one yard pass interception by Co-Captain Earle Bishop in the second quarter. Colby, especially powerful through the air, made seventeen first downs to Middlebury’s eight. The Mules scored twice in the first period and once each in the third and fourth.

Norwich beat Middlebury at Northfield, 31 to 6, in an aerial circus of a game, much closer than the score reveals, although Norwich could not be stopped on the ground and was never in real danger. With Sheehan and Cooke passing to Rooney, Pepin, Harris, and Buonerba, Midd completed twenty out of forty-three passes for 283 yards and made seventeen first downs to twelve for Norwich. Twice in the second period, the Panthers, playing their best game of the season, were inside the Norwich ten yard stripe only to be stopped by interceptions.

Although behind only 6-0 at the half, Midd lost 32-0 to Connecticut at Middlebury, with six pass interceptions greatly helping the Uconns. Colyer, Thompson, and Cruess shone on the Midd defense with Bob Zaumseil, Sheehan, Cooke, and Rooney leading the offensive.

After going scoreless in the first period Coast Guard Academy scored three touchdowns in the second, one in the third, and four in the fourth to crush Middlebury here, 52-0, the Panther’s seventh straight loss. Midd was never in the game after the first period. Three reserves, Buonerba, Hitch Hitchner, and Mert Stevens were the Blue’s main offensive sparkplugs.

In its big game with U. V. M., Midd with Sheehan starring, led at halftime, 7-6, scoring on a pass from Cooke to Sheehan, nine plays after first getting the ball. But the Vermont combine of La Pointe and Beaulieu showed too much power in the second half and Vermont won the forty-second annual classic, 18-7.

Bob Reuman, the Panther’s star left tackle, has been elected team captain for 1943.

JUNIOR VARSITY

Since, for the first time in years, freshmen were eligible for varsity football this season, there was no frosh football team. But there was a junior varsity team, coached by Randy Hoffman, with Dutch DePodwin as captain. The team was moderately successful, winning one game while losing three. However, that one win was posted over our traditional rival Vermont.

The first game, against Green Mountain Junior College, was won by the Poultney team, 7-0, after a recovered fumble on the Midd five yard line in the fourth period. Outstanding for Midd in the losing cause were Hitch Hitchner, Ross Brown, Joe Sackett, and Ted Kolzak. The Panthers showed all of the necessary spirit but their lack of experience counted against them. Green Mountain did not succeed in getting the ball into Midd territory until midway in the second period.

The Williams J.V.’s defeated Middlebury, 26-19, in the next game, after leading 19-0 at the half. Instrumental in fashioning Midd’s comeback were the passes of Richy Kilgallen to Gil Myrick and Don McGuire, the running of Phil Dunham, and the sterling line play of Hux Huxley, Cap Booth, Evan Littlefield, and Paul Gale.

We next defeated the Vermont J.V.’s 20-0 for our only victory of the season. Kilgallen’s passes to Myrick and McGuire were the big factors in the Panther victory, plus the great defensive play of Ed Huizer. McGuire, Dunham, and Cliff Hendrix scored the Midd touchdowns.

The last game of the year saw the J.V.’s fall before the powerhouse from Kimball Union Academy, 18-14. Paced by Carey, K.U.A. led by 28-0 at the half and it wasn’t until the fourth period that Midd was able to break loose and score two touchdowns.

Dunham, Hitchner, and Bill Calkins, also saw service on the varsity before the end of the season.
Captain Freddie Lapham

Midd, under Coach Brown, opened its basketball season by losing to Hartwick at Middlebury, 52-34. Midd had an 8-3 lead at one time and were losing only 36-32 with about seven minutes to play, when Hartwick suddenly ran away with the game. John McGarry, with eleven points, was high scorer for Midd.

The Blue defeated the 71st Field Artillery of Fort Ethan Allen in a thriller, 48-47, on a field goal by John McGarry as the final gun sounded. That was the only time in the game when Midd was ahead. Captain Freddy Lapham made eighteen points to pace the team.

In the first game after Christmas Middlebury beat Union in a rough contest at Schenectady, 34-33. Midd led most of the way and was spark-plugged by forward Lapham who netted thirteen points. Bob Adsit was outstanding on the defense.

The next night Coach Brown's men defeated the New York State Teacher's College at Albany, 39-36. Lapham, Johnny Cadwell, and Ferd Ensinger highlighted the Midd attack as the Panther teamwork really went to town.

Vermont, led by Larry Killick who scored twenty-seven points, beat Middlebury 55-40 in the next game. The Panthers led for most of the first half and trailed merely by 19-18 at intermission but fell apart in the stretch drive. Outstanding for us was Bill Calkins, starting his first game at forward.

Midd lost to Williams at Williamstown, 47-36, in the next game, after again leading most of the way. They were ahead 34-32 with four minutes to go when Williams' shots started connecting. McGarry topped the Panther scorers with sixteen points.

Four days later Norwich conquered Middlebury at Northfield, 36-35, in a game in which neither team was ever more than four points ahead. Again poor shooting and the failure to follow up shots caused Midd's downfall. Loopie Lapham was the only Midd player to consistently find the range. He scored fifteen points.

Midd vanquished R.P.I. in the next encounter, 43-41, at Middlebury. The Blue opened up with eight straight points and had an 18-10 advantage at haltime only to have the Engineers move ahead 29-28 in the second half. However except for that flurry the Panthers were never in great danger although the score was a little too close for comfort at the end. Lapham with seventeen points and Calkins with thirteen led the Blue.

Middlebury played its best game of the year in the next game, beating a strong St. Michael's five, 44-37. The passing and teamwork were excellent, the various plays worked like charms, and Bob Adsit’s defensive work left nothing to be desired. Bill Calkins starred for us with eighteen points, Lapham made ten, and Ray Fox, replacing the injured Cadwell, scored nine.

The tall Norwich team led all the way to swamp Midd in the last home game, 44-28. Calkins, with thirteen points, again sparked the Blue offensive.

With Killick netting seventeen points this time, U. V. M. crushed the Panthers 57-30 at Burlington. At one time in the second half, Middlebury, paced by Lapham who scored fifteen points, pulled up to 38-27 but then Freddy injured his shoulder and from there on in Vermont just rolled up the score.

The season ended on a sour note, as Midd, playing without Lapham or Cadwell, lost to St. Michael’s, 48-44, at Winooski, for a season’s record of five wins and seven defeats.

HOCKEY

The hockey team had a new head coach this season in Dud Phinney, former Middlebury puck star. Coach Phinney and Captain Don Gale had the team report early, working on the board track before there was ice.

The first three games were played during Christmas vacation in the annual Lake Placid Sno-Bird Invitation. Middlebury lost its first game to Colgate, eventual winners of the tournament, 12-2. The Red Raiders were too powerful, scoring five times in the first period and breezing the rest of the way. Kenny Moore and Dave Palmstrom scored for the Panthers.

Two days later, in a night game, Midd led 2-1 over M.I.T. with five minutes to play, when suddenly Tech scored three quick goals to win, 4-2. Lack of reserves was probably the deciding factor in our defeat. Moore and Captain Chunky Gale made the Midd tallies.

The next night Midd met Cornell in a rough fast game that saw the Blue in front most of the time, although three late Cornell goals gave the Ithacans the victory, 7-5. Palmstrom made three goals to pace the Midd attack.
M.I.T. beat us again in our first home game, 3 to 1. The game started slowly but ended fast with the Tech goalie being the standout performer of the afternoon. Gale passed to Moore for Midd’s lone goal, midway in the final period.

On the road again Middlebury lost to Colgate, 10-6, and to Hamilton, 7-2, on successive days. The Colgate star, Greg Batt scored four goals in the second period, two of which were only nine seconds apart. Gale, Moore, Palmstrom, and Dave Thompson scored for Middlebury. Palmstrom also scored both Midd goals against Hamilton. Lack of reserves again helped lead to our defeat.

In a rough, hard-fought game, played in a snowstorm Williams left Middlebury with a .5-4 victory after Midd had tied up the score three times. Kittredge’s third goal of the game for the Purple provided the winning margin late in the third period. Moore tallied twice for Midd with Gale and Charlie Proctor also scoring.

Middlebury rebounded from this to defeat its ancient rival Vermont twice within a week, conquering the Green and Gold 7-3 in Middlebury in the first game, and then shutting them out, 6-0, in Burlington four days later. U.V.M. led 2-0 in the first period of the first game before the Panthers got started, but once they did, Moore, Proctor, Gale, Palmstrom, and Phil Dunham were pouring shots in from all angles, to swamp the Catamounts. The second game was slowed down by slushy ice but the Midd attack was still in high gear while goalies Fletch Gustafson and Jon Izant were great on the defensive.

The Panthers next lost 4-2 to a team of Royal Canadian Air Force cadets, led by Bill Wyman, former Midd hockey star. The game was played in a blinding snowstorm which rendered skating difficult and visibility zero.

Middlebury’s last two games of the season were against Norwich. The first, at Northfield, resulted in an overwhelming 13-2 triumph for the Mules, but in the second game, which officially opened the Middlebury Winter Carnival, Midd came back to score a thrilling 11-10 upset victory and thereby gain a tie for the state championship. Norwich led 9-6 with three and one-half minutes to play in the third period but Midd surged back to tie up the game and come through with a victory in overtime. Gale, Moore, and Palmstrom, who scored four times, starred for the Blue and White.
The ski team started working out early in December under the leadership of its captain and coach John Gale, who had the men out with the first snow, running the trails at Bread Loaf and getting into condition for the first meet, the annual Lake Placid Sno-Bird Invitation over Christmas vacation.

In a field of thirteen eastern colleges Middlebury came in fourth in the Carnival, relinquishing the crown it won the year before to New Hampshire, with Norwich second and Williams third. Bobo Sheehan was the first Panther home in the cross-country finishing tenth and was fourth to Art Devlin of Syracuse in the jump, to lead the Panthers there also. John Gale tied for first with Wilkins of Syracuse in the slalom and was second to Devlin in the downhill, only one-tenth second away. Bob Sheehan won the Ski-Meister Trophy for being the best all-around skier in the four events.

The next scheduled meet was the Williams Winter Carnival, which was cancelled because of the war, so the team had a wait of almost six weeks until the Dartmouth Winter Carnival and Intercollegiate Ski Union Championships.

Again New Hampshire was the winner with the Middlebury team finishing sixth in a field of eight. This was largely due to the absence of Bobo Sheehan. Phil Dunham took a third in the jump although his leap of thirty-three and one-half meters was the longest of the day. Bob Sawyer of Norwich was the winner. Gale came in third in the slalom behind Bud Ireland of Bates and Bill Distin of Dartmouth, and Cliff Hendrix finished eighth in the downhill to lead the Panther contingent there. The first Middlebury man home in the langlauf was Bill Hawkes sixteenth.

New Hampshire also won the Middlebury Winter Carnival the next week-end with Dartmouth second, Norwich third, and Midd fourth, followed by Williams, and Vermont. Gale won the downhill to give Midd its only first, although Dunham, who came in second in the jump had the longest leap of the afternoon. The superior form of Sawyer won for him. Bob Sheehan ran third in the slalom behind Distin, who won easily, and Bill Peck of Norwich, Dunklee of New Hampshire won the langlauf with Midd finishing way back. Due to transportation difficulties the jump, downhill, and slalom were held on Chipman Hill this year instead of Bread Loaf as in the past.
The Middlebury baseball team, coached by Red Kelly and captained by Ed Yeomans, ended the season last spring with a record of four wins and seven defeats. Midd fielded a team consisting of Tom Rooney, Johnny Prukop, and Ed Shea in the outfield, Cap Yeomans at first base, Sandy Young at second, Ed Flemming at third and Bobo Sheehan shortstop, with Johnny Urban or Earle Bishop behind the plate. Bill Desmond, Hal Skinner, Joe Webber, George Wiemann, and Jim Scholes saw mound duty for the Panthers during the season.

The first game was against Springfield at Springfield, and behind the tight four hit pitching of Bill Desmond, who won two and lost three over the season as a whole, Midd started out on the right foot with a 1-3 victory. Cap Yeomans had sixteen putouts at first and Bob Sheehan drove in two runs on a single, but the highlight of the afternoon was a game-winning home run by centerfielder Ed Shea in the eighth inning.

The next day the Panthers fell before American International College, 9-1, the A.I.C. pitcher giving but two hits, one each to Sheehan and right fielder Rooney. Hal Skinner and George Wiemann were on the mound for Middlebury.

The first home game was a wild affair won by Vermont, 17-13, in a battle replete with base hits and errors, during which the lead changed hands a number of times. Desmond and Wieman received poor support for, Midd, the team committing eleven errors behind them to Vermont’s four. Middlebury got eighteen hits, Vermont, seventeen.

Second row: Coach Kelly, Skinner, Rooney, Palmstrom, Fales, Webber, Urban
Baseball Season Curtained

The Garnet of Union came to Middlebury next and went away on the long end of a 7-4 count, due chiefly to Midd's errors and failure to hit with men on base. Yeomans got three for three for the Blue and White.

Bill Desmond limited St. Michael's to nine hits as Midd won the next game, 7-2, at Winooski. Third baseman Ed Flemming got three for three and Shea drove in three runs on a triple and single.

We won our next game at R.P.I., 11-5, in seven innings. Wieniann, Scholes, and Desmond pitched for Middlebury with Scholes the winning pitcher. The Panthers won on only five hits. Clarkson beat us on an error in the following game, 7-6. Wieniann and Skinner pitched for Midd. We concluded the New York trip by losing 7-5 to St. Lawrence, five errors spelling the Panthers' downfall.

Vermont beat Middlebury, 13-6, behind Akley in our last game away. The game was decided early when U.V.M. scored two runs in the first, six in the second and three in the third to lead 11-1 after three innings. Desmond and Webber pitched for Middlebury.

The Midd nine led 5-0 after two innings of the next game, only to have St. Lawrence counter with six runs in the fourth and go on to win 8-7. Flemming got three hits in three times at bat.

We closed the season on a high note with a 3-2 win over St. Michael's behind the seven hit pitching of Joe Webber. In a storybook finish Midd came from behind to score three runs in the last half of the ninth inning on a walk to Yeomans, singles by Flemming, Urban, and Bishop, and Webber's hot grounder.

Midd had the benefit of good pitching throughout the season, especially from Desmond and Webber, and there was plenty of hitting power as seen by the fact that Bishop hit .400 while Flemming led the regulars with a mark of .381, and Yeomans, Rooney, and Prukop all hit above .300. However this offensive strength was more than counterbalanced by the Blue and White's inept fielding. The Panthers committed fifty errors in eleven games.

Bill Desmond and Ed Shea were elected co-captains of the 1943 team.
The Middlebury relay team enjoyed a most successful season. Competing in only one meet, the Boston A.A. games, the Panther quartet survived a serious mishap to defeat Bowdoin and Bates handily.

Midd had a long lead in the second leg of the mile race when a non-contestant stepped on the track directly in front of Hal Parker, who dropped the baton in the collision. As a result Midd fell to last place but Holly Hollister at number three ran a terrific quarter to regain the lead, which anchor man Dave Stebbins added to before the finish. Will Bangs was lead-off man for Midd with George Hartz as alternate.

In the New England A.A.U. Championships at Medford a week later, Dave Stebbins ran second to Shurtleff of Rhode Island State in the 600 yard run.

The Middlebury track team under Coach Brown, possibly the last for the duration of the war, had a moderately successful season last spring, winning one of four meets. It was led by Captain Jack Bates who scored over fifty points in the dashes and low hurdles. This was counterbalanced however by weakness in the field events. The season began early with an unofficial meet with U.V.M. on the board track.

Williams came to town for the first official meet of the season and went away victorious to the tune of 71 1/4-63 2/5. Jack Bates won the low hurdles and 220-yard dash, Tom Rooney the broad jump, Cliff Backup the 110-yard high hurdles, and Holly Hollister the javelin, in which he was defeated but once all year.

Middlebury beat Union at Schenectady in the next meet, $81\frac{1}{2}$-$44\frac{1}{2}$ under a red hot sun, taking eleven firsts. Dave Stebbins won the 440 in fifty-one seconds and the 880 in 2:04.4. Backup and Hollister repeated in their specialties, Jack Bates won both dashes and the low hurdles, and Dick Kinsey took the two mile run in 10:38.5. Other Midd victories were scored by Hal Parker in the high jump, George Morse in the mile run, and Bill Hawkes in the broad jump.

R.P.I. beat Middlebury at Troy, 69.9-59.1. Tom Rooney won the broad jump with a leap of 21 feet, $8\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Stebbins won the quarter mile and half mile, Holly the javelin, to continue undefeated, and Morse the mile easily. Captain Jack won the low hurdles and placed second in the century and broad jump for eleven points. Midd swept the quarter mile as Will Bangs and Fred Hawkes ran second and third to Steb.

The late Bert Mott of U.V.M. scored twenty-four points, with four firsts, a second, and a third, as Vermont beat Middlebury at Porter Field, 77-58, in the last meet of the season. Mott won both of the dashes and both hurdle events, added a second in the broad jump behind Tommy Rooney, who did 20 ft. 10½ inches, and finished with a third in the high jump, which U.V.M. swept. His time of 24.4 seconds in the 220-yard low hurdles was a new state intercollegiate record. Stebbins scored another double in the 440 and 880, winning them in 51.1 and 2:04.7 respectively. Midd also garnered second place in these events. George Morse won the mile in 4:33.6, and Hal Parker and Robin Willets were in a triple tie for first with a Vermont man in the pole vault. Hollister was defeated in the javelin for the first time in the season, losing by five and one-half inches to Akley, pitcher on the Vermont baseball team, who also won the discus.

Dave Stebbins was elected captain of the 1913 team.

The cross-country team opened the season by losing to Springfield, 18-37. Co-Captain Paul Davis in fourth place was the first Midd man home, followed by Dick Kinsey, Co-Captain Lew Haines, Dave Stebbins, and Hal Parker.

A week later the Panthers, led by Davis in second place, upset Williams, 24-31 at Williamstown. Parker fourth, Haines fifth, Stebbins sixth, and Kinsey seventh, were the other Midd men in the money.

The next race resulted in a perfect triumph, 15-0, for Union at Schenectady with Davis once more leading the way for Midd. The last race, and only one at home, was a clean sweep for Vermont, 15-40, as their first five men finished in a tie. Davis again paced the Midd harriers, followed by Haines, Parker, freshman Jimmy Gilbert, and Dick Kinsey.

Besides these races there were also several handicap races with the J.V.'s during the season, all of which the J.V.'s won. Paul Davis was elected captain of the team for the 1943 season.
FENCING

Led by coach and captain Bill Small, star epee and foils man, the fencing team had a nucleus of five returning veterans at the first call for practice this year. The other four were Lew Haines, George Nitchie, Fox Holden, and George Hartung. Lost to the team were last year’s captain-coach John Corbin, who graduated, and saber man Hank Cady, who joined the army, but as replacements there were over a dozen men out to take their places, including a number of freshmen. The most promising of the turnouts was freshman Bill Percival, skilled at foils and epee.

Although practices started in Hamlin Hall and the gym early in the fall, there has been only one contest so far, that against Dartmouth here in Middlebury in mid-December. Due to faulty bus connections the only Dartmouth man to show up at first was their Captain King, but he played his nine matches and by the time they were completed Dartmouth led, 6-3. King was especially brilliant in the saber, winning all three matches there.

However, as soon as the other Dartmouth fencers arrived the tide began to turn, and led by Bill Small, who won his three foils matches and all three in the epee, Middlebury surged back to a close 14-13 victory over the Green, avenging last year’s 15-12 defeat. Nitchie won five of his matches, including two in the saber and two in the epee, while Haines, Holden, and Percival also came through with important victories over the Hanoverians.

The result was in doubt until the final match when Bill Small defeated his Dartmouth opponent to give Midd the victory.
GOLF

Golf became an autumn sport this year for the first time in Middlebury history, but for the first time in years there was no team last spring. The fall team was created by the Athletic Council as part of the intensified physical fitness program of the college, with Les “Fearless” Frazier as coach.

The first match was in Williamstown where the Panthers lost to a team rated the best in Williams’ golf history. The score was 9-0, with everyone of the Ephmen shooting below 80. Starring for Midd was Sandy Young, number one man, who carded a 79 in losing. The other members of the Panthers were Bill Engesser at number two, Don Bates number three, Al Wolfley number four, Carl Lindner at number five, and Chuck Scott as number six man. The foursome pairings were Young-Engesser, Bates-Wolfley, and Lindner-Scott. The team remained the same in future matches except that Ray Fox replaced Carl Lindner.

The next match was played at the Pittsford Country Club against a team of Proctor and Pittsford. Midd won 6½ to 2½ as Bates and Wolfley scored in their individual matches and then paired to take their best-ball match and post a 3-0 win.

Dartmouth outclassed the Middmen, 8-1, at Hanover, in the final encounter of the season. Wolfley halved his match and with Bates halved their best-ball match to account for the Panther’s lone point. This was originally planned as a quadrangular match but Colgate and Williams failed to appear.

Scott, R. Fox, Bates, Young, Engesser, Wolfley, C. Lindner, Coach Frazier
The Middlebury tennis team, under the tutelage of Coach Cornwall had a highly successful spring season, winning their last seven matches in a row after losing the first three to Amherst, Williams, and Colgate. Included in the seven consecutive victories were two 9-0 whitewashings of Vermont, two smashing triumphs over St. Michael's by scores of 8-1 and 6-1, and single victories over Hamilton, R.P.I., and St. Lawrence.

Outstanding for the Panthers all season was the freshman doubles team of Albie Robinson and Phil Dunham, which went through the entire campaign undefeated. The rest of the team consisted of veterans Lew Haines, Charlie Proctor, Tom Macdonald, Chuck Baird, and Hal Melvin.

Midd also had a fall tennis team for the first time in its history. Proctor, Macdonald, and Al Hadley from the spring squad formed the nucleus of the new team with the roster being rounded out by Lyn Sackett, and freshmen Al Rice, Ad Merrick, and Seab Short.

The Panthers extended their victory string to eight in a row by crushing St. Michael's 9-0 in the first encounter, but the skein was broken a few days later by Dartmouth, which conquered Middlebury 8-1. The doubles team of Rice and Macdonald scored Midd's lone victory. However, Midd returned to winning ways the next week by conquering Vermont 6-3 in the season's finale. Macdonald and Rice, and Proctor and Short won their doubles matches and also accounted for Midd's four victories in the singles.
The whole intramural setup for the men's college was greatly changed this year. Because of the war and resulting shortages of manpower, equipment, and transportation facilities, varsity sports have been greatly curtailed. The football, cross-country, basketball, and hockey teams, had regulation seasons but the relay skiing and fencing teams shortened schedules, and the spring sports—baseball, tennis, track, and golf—are out altogether.

As a result this de-emphasis of varsity competition has been balanced by an increasing emphasis on intramural competition. There are, besides varsity and intramural sports, also various other activities such as hiking and calisthenics that are included in the college's intensified physical fitness program, which is intended to help meet the nation's demand for a healthier population during and after the war. For this purpose also, a commando course has been built behind the board track, but there has been little opportunity to use it as yet because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Coach Red Kelly is the head man in the intramural picture. There are also two student managers, Tom Macdonald and Fred Bosworth, who receive varsity letters, and two assistants, Bill Neale and Pete Harris. The system this year is different in that team competition is in the form of round-robin tournaments instead of the elimination tournaments of other years. At the end of each team sport every fraternity will have played every other fraternity at least once and in some sports twice. Individual competition remains the same as in the past. For the purposes of intramurals the college year is divided into four quarters. The fraternities compete for the Trophy of Trophies, emblematic of all-around athletic superiority, won last year by Delta Upsilon.

During the first quarter of the year there was team competition in touch football, tennis, and golf, and individual competition in tennis, golf, and horseshoes. Delta Kappa Epsilon, led by Freddie Lapham and Foo Matthews, were the winners in the touch football league, finishing the season undefeated and with eight wins. The deciding game of league play was that between the Dekes and Sigma Phi Epsilon, both of whom were undefeated at the time. The Sig Eps led by Joe Wiemann, put up a hard fight before losing 13-7 and so finished in second place with seven wins and one defeat. Behind them in order came Kappa Delta Rho, Alpha Sigma Phi, D.U., Theta Chi, the Neutrals, Chi Psi, and Sigma Alpha.
A.S.P. and the Dekes tied for first place in team tennis with records of seven wins and one defeat, with S.P.E., Chi Psi, K.D.R., Neutrals, D.U., Theta Chi, and S.A., following in that order. The Chi Psis and Dekes tied for first in team golf with records of 7-1, followed by A.S.P., Sig Ep, Theta Chi, D.U., Neutrals, K.D.R., and S.A. These ties could not be played off because of the rapidly approaching winter.

A.S.P. won the volleyball in the second quarter with a record of 15 and 1. D.U., 14 and 2, was second. The Sig Ep team of Wiemann, Proctor, and Ed Huizer was undefeated in team handball, with A.S.P. and D.K.E. tied for second. Tom Cruess, A.S.P., won the individual handball over Chuck Baird, C.P., and Proctor beat Haines in the unofficial table tennis tournament. At midyears Sigma Alpha dropped out of competition owing to a loss of men to the army.

SOCCER

Those who play W.A.A. soccer profess it to be more strenuous than other fall sports, making it one of the best in which to work off excess energy. Ably led by Carol Hartman Smith, the W.A.A. team triumphed over the freshman teams. The annual field day found the W.A.A. team on top with a score of 6-0 over the frosh. Although the players are relatively few, the spirit of sportsmanship prevails on the soccer field, whether there are two full teams in action or only partial ones. Marion Booth, Louise Wilkin, Dorothy Hood, Ingrid Monk and Doris Orth were among the outstanding members of the W.A.A. team.

HOCKEY

When a good percentage of the women's college starts to race up and down the athletic field, armed with sticks and apparently bent on demolishing a little white ball, everybody knows that the hockey season has officially opened the W.A.A. year. This fall Charlotte Johnson as manager kept the situation well under control, and the sophomores, following captain Margery Beal, captured the championship for the second year. The accepted authorities were Isabel Grier, Martha Newton, Virginia Wynn, Janet Harris, Leonore Jenkins, Margery Beal, Wilma Bunce, Margery Johnston, Ann Robinson, Mary Jean Snook, and Alice Bull, the All-Midd team.
TENNIS

The fact that there is a shortage of tennis balls does not seem to bother the Middlebury tennis fans. For proof of the popularity of tennis as a W.A.A. sport, one need only look at the sign-up sheets in the gymnasium any spring day to see the enthusiasts listed there. The sport never fails to bring many devotees to the courts on warm, and often not so warm, days, either to play or to watch.

This year, W.A.A. tennis was under the capable direction of Nancy Read. Ordinarily, the tournament takes place in the spring, but because of the shortened spring semester, it was held this fall. It was won by Dolly Greene with Betty Thompson as runner-up.

VOLLEYBALL

Under the competent direction of Catherine Cadbury and the coaching of Miss Rosevear, W.A.A. volleyball enjoyed a good season this year. The captains of the four class teams were, for the seniors, Betty Brigham, for the juniors, Lee Jenkins, for the sophomores Jane Ketchum, and for the freshmen, Mary Caswell. The climax of the volleyball season was an exciting and close game between the junior and senior class teams, from which the seniors emerged victorious. The All-Midd team was hard to decide upon, but finally Virginia Clemens, Carolyn Ohlander, Betty Brigham, Louise Wilkin, Betty Thompson, Frances Horning and Mary Caswell were chosen.
BASKETBALL

If you aren’t exactly the outdoor type on those sub-zero days, but you would like some exercise, there is no better way to get it than with W.A.A. basketball. It’s also guaranteed to warm you up, for the competition is just as hot as the sport itself. The sophomores want to win again. The seniors are having their last try. The freshmen want to start out right, and the juniors won’t be beaten in the finals again, so every class is convinced that they are going to be champions. Betty Mercer as manager has only to tell them when, and the battle is on, with the results sure to be close.

BADMINTON

A sure sign of spring is the appearance of birds, and one of the earliest heralds is the shuttlecock. As soon as the last basket has been sunk, badminton comes to the front in W.A.A. sports. With Leonore Jenkins leading, many enthusiasts turn out for the twelve hours required for credit. Adequate equipment adds to the enjoyment of the game. Competition is unusually keen when the playing progresses to a mixed doubles tournament, open to any one who can keep her eye on a “bird” and a man at the same time. To wind up the season, a consolation tournament, a year-old feature of the department, is held for those whose zeal surpasses their skill.
BOWLING

"I went bowling yesterday and now I can hardly move," is a remark frequently overheard on the women's campus. However, the almost inevitable after-effects seldom deter enthusiasts from bowling several strings a week. Evidence of the rising popularity of the sport is the fact that over sixty women have signed up for regular classes. Since the college has no alleys of its own, students bowl at the Middlebury alleys. Candlepins are used instead of the heavier duckpins. At the head of W.A.A. bowling is Jane Nielsen, under whose direction tournaments are planned and contests arranged between men's and women's teams. Students enjoy bowling as a winter season sport because, unlike skiing, it is not affected by the tricks of our changeable Middlebury weather.

SKIING

Every winter afternoon, weather and snow conditions permitting, chapel hill is crowded with enthusiastic students learning to ski or practicing "christies" and other advanced turns. Beginners become proficient at making sitzmarks. Girls out for W.A.A. skiing, headed by Helen Beardslee, may earn credits by reporting to the daily ski classes held on the hill. Professor Richard Brown is instructor, and all from beginners to experts make herringbone tracks up the hill for his advice and then go whizzing down again. Clad in her gaily colored ski suit, nearly every girl in the college can be found out there at some time, learning the ups and downs of Middlebury's most popular and well-known sport.
M O D E R N  D A N C E

“Toward the development of physical fitness” might well be the motto of the Modern Dance Club. Shirley West is president of this organization which cooperates with W.A.A. Under the able direction of Mrs. Storrs Lee, the club has attracted more interest than ever this year, and there are now about forty members. The activities of the club culminated in its spring program presented on April 1. This program did not have any central theme, thus giving members more opportunity for originality of idea in their routines.

R I D I N G

A brisk trot over the bridle paths on campus, or to Bittersweet Falls, is one of the most enjoyable ways to spend a fall or spring afternoon, and at the same time, for those who are interested, to earn W.A.A. credit. Only twelve hours of riding are needed, a requirement which none of the enthusiasts finds difficult to complete. The brilliant autumn colors or the first green shoots of spring discover many girls eager to mount and find relief from classes in this popular sport. Novices gradually improve in the technique of handling a horse and reach the point where they may ride without supervision. Riding has been ably managed this year by Muriel Roome, with Miss Jacqueline Mitchell accompanying and instructing the riders.
GOLF

Managed by Ruth Waldmann '44, the annual W.A.A. golf tournament took place in the fall, and was played according to national U.S.G.A. rules. Dorothy E. Brown '44 placed first among entries from the entire women's college, and Ramona Redman '44 was runner-up. War-time regulations and rationings don't cover golf balls yet, but they are becoming scarce, a fact which makes playing difficult, to say the least. However, all throughout last September and October, contestants cheerfully hiked around the Middlebury golf course, recovering suddenly valuable balls lost in the all too dense shrubbery. No plans have been made for a spring tournament because of the shortened school year.

ARCHERY

Coming back to college long before Indian summer did not faze Midd's bowwomen. They began to send their arrows humming through the air in the first September days, and were eager to get an early start on this season. They knew our accelerated calendar allotted no time for archery in the spring, and were spurred on to intensive practice. This factor resulted in their fine exhibition of balloon and target shooting at the W.A.A. field day, held on October 13. Gain in proficiency was shown by all, but there is always one arrow a little keener, truer than the rest. This year it belonged to Diana Lurvey, winner of the tournament.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

As the work on the 1944 KALEIDOSCOPE draws to a close, we feel that the many people who helped make it possible should be given a vote of thanks. In a publication such as this, those who are immediately concerned with its production are, of necessity, few in number but upon looking back we realize that it required the efforts of many who get none of the credit.

To the entire staff and Grace Litchfield, who have given their time, their effort and their utmost in cooperation, a particular vote of thanks is extended.

Deep appreciation for assistance in the planning, designing and engraving as well as a personal interest in the book goes to the Howard-Wesson Company, Miss Dorothy C. Cooper and Mr. Milton L. Fitch and to Mr. Harry M. Blodgett of the Free Press Printing Company for assistance in actual production.

Thanks also:
To the Warren Kay Van tinne Studios, particularly Mrs. Camille D. Johnson, for their excellent photography and cooperation and to the David J. Malloy Plant and Mr. A. A. Lubersky for a fine cover and design.

To Mrs. Elizabeth B. Walsh, Miss Helen Dukett and Miss Shirley Minkler for their advice and assistance.

To a host of photographers who through thick and thin did their best to provide pictures for this book, especially Mr. A. W. Gove, Jean Foard, John Carter, George Hartz and Jane Stearns.

To the Blackstone Studios, 20 West 57th Street, New York City, for their picture of President Stratton.

To the tryouts who have faithfully performed every task assigned to them.

And in conclusion, our heartfelt thanks go to all the members of the student body for their cooperation, encouragement and assistance in countless ways, and for the privilege of publishing this book.

If the 1944 KALEIDOSCOPE has pleased you, we are content.

Neil Atkins.
